

Put Yourself Into The Scripture

Study Verse: 1 Corinthians 13:1-13 “Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.”

My Thoughts: I was listening to the radio one day and the Radio Host spoke about this, it really caused me to pause. I hope you will slow down and allow this to reach your spirit. I believe you may view your devotion much differently than before. So... Below you will find the key scripture is modified with blanks. Now, read the scripture again, filling each blank with the word “Jesus “

Wow... Right? Gods word is meant to be accepted as a personal letter of encouragement for how to live each day. Well, here is the kick in the pants... Read the scripture again but this time fill in each blank with “I ” (You make the grammar fit) Dear Lord, forgive the many times that I have failed to live your word throughout each day. Accepting Gods word personally and putting yourself into His word of wisdom, promise, healing, salvation, blessings, will create a stronger and more intimate relationship with the LORD. How can He be dismissed? I pray this will change the way you study the word of God moving forward. He is so tangible when you do.

Until next time, May God bless, Heal, Protect and grow in you daily. Everyone say, AMEN
